YOUR APOLLO 11 SOUVENIR

Neil Armstrong, Edwin Aldrin Jr. and Michael Collins on their epic voyage to the Moon. The breathtaking view was captured by a 35mm camera with an extra-wide angle lens positioned at the 360-foot level of the service gantry. The world's most powerful launch vehicle, weighing 6,200,000 pounds and boasting 7,500,000 pounds of thrust in its five F-1 first-stage engines, measures 363 feet.

Next Probes: How Much, How Fast

By Walter Bixby
Editorial Director
KENNEDY SPACE CENTER -- Apollo 11 and its incredible voyage to the Moon has triggered new dreams of space adventure.

The big questions, of course, are priority and monies.

As astronauts Neil Armstrong, Edwin Aldrin Jr. and Michael Collins streak Earthward to a splashdown Thursday in the Pacific Ocean, the romance of space has again gripped the imagination of mankind.

Do we exert an all-out effort to explore the Moon? Should major attention be diverted to Mars or some other planet in conjunction with the Apollo Applications Program?

President Nixon's success in dealing with the war in Viet Nam and inflation at home will largely dictate the answers and shape the immediate future in space.

Although the President is a strong supporter of the space program, he never has detailed his views on the future in space in detail.

During his presidential campaign, Mr. Nixon said: "It is an inescapable fact of our national life today that we cannot afford to do all that we wish. But we must do all that we can."

"As to this I assert my conviction that among the claimants for federal support I consider the space program both indispensable and of major importance to our country."

Mr. Nixon told "Business Week" that the budget problem always is "to separate the necessary from the merely desirable."

The space program's position in national priority will be largely determined by how these competitive demands are translated into money by Congress.

Vice President Spiro Agnew and Dr. Lee DuBridge, Mr. Nixon's science advisor, will submit recommendations to the President in a special task force report due on Sept. 1.

Dr. DuBridge supports a balanced space program in which manned space is not dominant, a built-in moderate expansion of the space program to take advantage of opportunities to travel far out in the solar system, more space technology satellites orbiting various planets and a continuation of manned Moon exploration.

He cautions against a specific Mars timetable because "there is much new technology and so much new science to be learned over the next 10 years."

Agnew said after the Apollo 11 launch he would press for a manned landing on Mars by the end of the century.

At the moment two unmanned spacecraft are headed for Mars. Mariner 6 is due to pass Mars on July 31 and Mariner 7 on Aug. 5. Plans call for two spacecraft to orbit Mars in 1971 and two more in 1973 with two soft landings in 1973.

Manned moon landings immediately after Apollo 11 already are programmed at the rate of one every four months. Titled the Apollo Applications Program, it calls for 10 more missions through 1972.

These lunar flights will enable the establishment of a base camp and the assembly of vehicles and other exploration necessities for scientific measurements and observations.

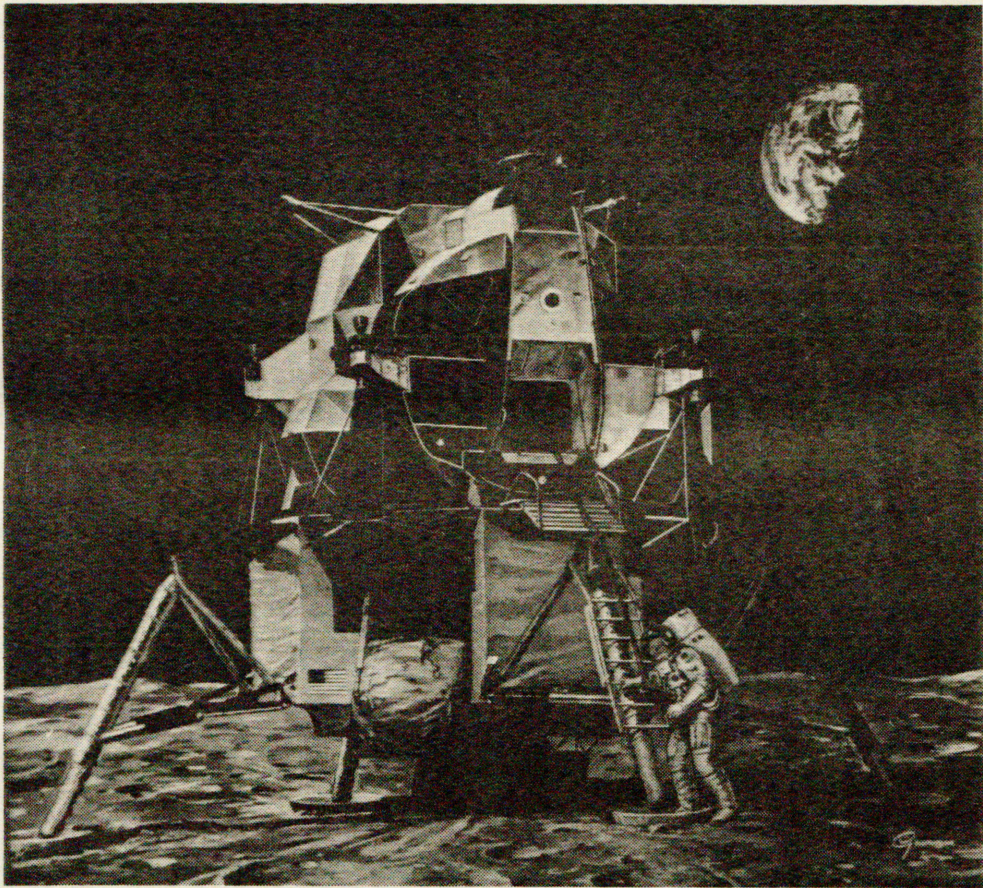

The National Aeronautics

Space Administration envisions space shuttles or ferries to orbiting space stations; one around Earth and one around the Moon. The shuttles would land much the same as airplanes do.

NASA describes these shuttles as low-cost transportation, a must in reducing the costs of space travel.

Astronaut Frank Borman, who heads the space station task force, predicts exploration projects for many more decades. "I'm convinced we'll be doing this for the solar system, too," he says.

"I look at the lunar exploration as one step, perhaps an infant step, into the future. So I think that we have established with the Apollo program the basis for continuing something that will be with us forever."

Neil Armstrong makes man's first step on the moon as depicted in this illustration. The actual step off the lunar landing module Eagle came at 9:56 p.m. local time Sunday evening. He stepped off the bowl-like base pod of one of four legs supporting Eagle. Edwin Aldrin Jr. followed 20 minutes later.

Watching, With Joy

By ALICE BIXBY
It was T minus 12 hours and counting when the tension and excitement really started mounting. As the minutes flew by there were things I knew had to be done if liftoff was to go on time. The check list was checked, the flight suits were ready and zero hour was near. But, not for the trip to the moon. It was for my first plane ride.

I had been invited to see Apollo 11 lift-off for the moon and to do this I had to make my first flight from mother earth.

The feelings of the astronauts cannot be much different than mine. With rapid pulse I sat back as the big engine roared and what a beautiful sight as you climb over the clouds and look down at the world below.

After years of imagining what sensations of speed you must feel I found as we climbed there was no feeling of speed at all. I wanted to help push.

The fear of the unknown is the greatest fear of all. Looking down from a tall building had made me dizzy. Looking down from 13,000 feet. This I did after the first few minutes of flight when I felt finally that the plane would stay up.

It was soon great fun to be flying and I even enjoyed eating brunch and marveled at how the coffee stays in the cup. The pilot took good care of us.

Maybe he knew it was my first flight. We just seemed to glide over everything and right down to the runway in Florida. My flight from earth was over and that brought the moon shot excitement just that much closer.

As I drove from the airport to Cocoa Beach my thoughts went back to when John Glenn drove down that same route after his three-orbit trip around the earth while most of us watched on TV.

Now I was here, in the bright sun, to see and feel the emotion myself. The shops were busy, motels full and the papers estimated there were thousands, maybe a million, people. There were VIPs, Medium IPs and just plain people. But there was room for all.

Everyone had someplace to go or something to see before that earth shaking moment planned for July 16 at 9:32 a.m.

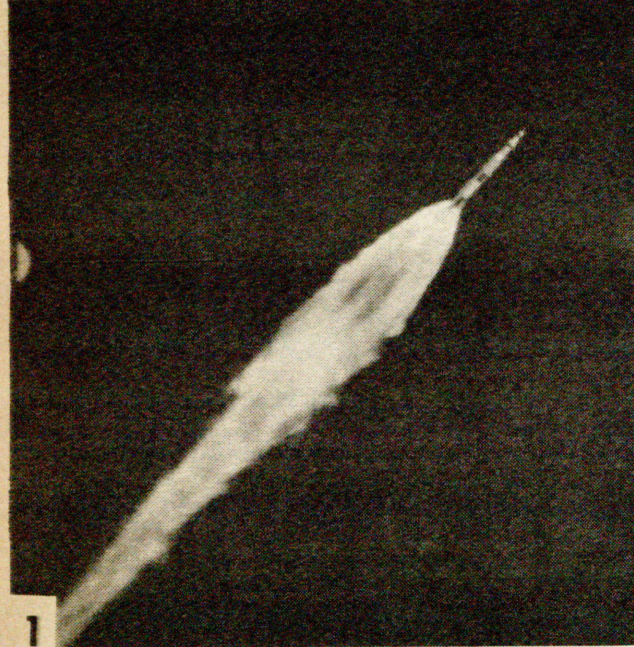

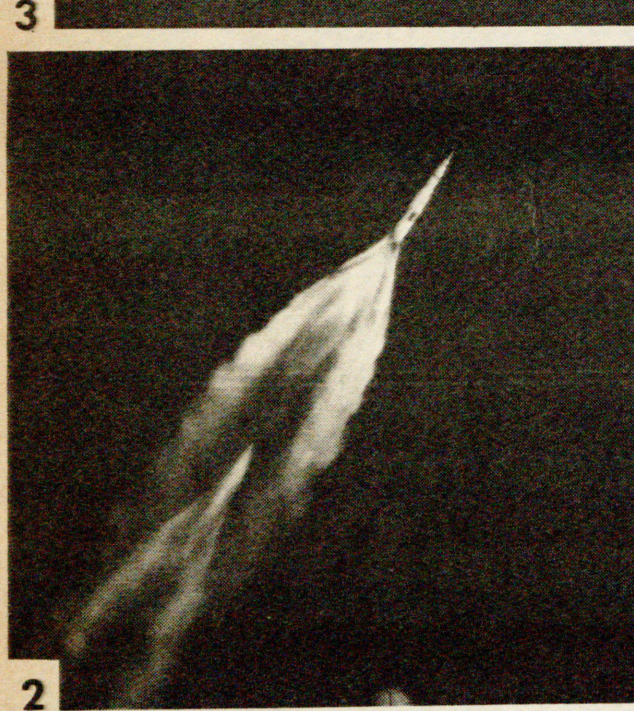

For me it was a tour of the Kennedy Space Center.

This was my way of catching up on all that had gone before and an inside peak at what was to happen soon.

The tour buses are boarded at the Kennedy Information Center and from there the space age unfolds. You see the industrial complex that keeps things working - where over a million phone calls are handled in a month. The quarters where several teams of astronauts may train at one time and Hanger S that housed John Glenn before his mission.

A stop is made at the Mercury Mission Control Center. It is not used for launches anymore and is set up just as it was for Gemini 3's flight. It was from here we ROMEDEVILLE -- Village officials and organizers of the First Bank of Hampton Park celebrated a milestone in the growth of Romeoville July 18. They broke ground for an ultra-modern banking facility in the Parkdale Shopping Plaza of Hampton Park.

Break Ground

Neal Murphy, president of the village for 40 years, and Richard McKool, executive vice president of Alexander Construction Company, were instrumental in the bank's early planning. They worked hard to make the bank become a reality.

William E. Rooney, one of the organizers, said the new financial facility will be constructed using the latest developments in bank construction which combine safety and convenience.

The First Bank of Hampton Park is centrally located in one of the fastest growing areas in Chicagoland. Since 1958 more than 30,000 persons have moved into the area which will be serviced by the new bank. New industry moving into the Santa Fe Industrial Park, Hampton Park Industrial Park and other individual industrial complexes will utilize the services offered.

McKool added, "The First Bank of Hampton Park is a welcome addition to the ever growing business community in Romeoville." He also said, "The ownership of the new bank is unique in that the stock subscriptions were first offered to the nearly 16,000 residents of Romeoville."

Wide base of ownership within the local community will assure the residents of the area that the policies of the bank will be formulated to the best interests of the area.

The bus fee (optional) is $4 per pupil per month; for two pupils, $5 per month; for three or more pupils, $6 per month.

Also optional is the fee for insurance which is $2 per pupil. The band rental fee is $10 per year.

The next regular board meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Aug. 11 in the Frankfort School library.

OKs Tentative School Budget

FRANKFORT--Approval of the tentative budget for the 1969-70 school year in the sum of $802,952.50 was given by the Frankfort board of education at its regular meeting last week.

Final approval of the annual appropriation will be given at the September meeting of the board. The budget this year would permit expenditures from the educational fund of $285,715. The total marked for the building fund which takes care of maintenance and repairs is $44,600.

The amount budgeted for bond and interest payments is $28,977.50. Transportation costs are figured at $20,360 and $3,300 is earmarked for the Illinois municipal retirement fund, which covers pensions for non-certified personnel. The big item is the site and construction fund, $420,000.

Teachers salaries are paid out of the educational fund and relative to salaries the board has increased the pay for substitutes from $20 to $23 a day.

Contract for blacktopping the play areas at Frankfort School was awarded DeBoer Paving Co., whose base bid of $3,668 and alternate $509 were lowest of three submitted. The other two bids were $4,048.85 base bid and no alternate submitted by S.G. Hays & Co., and $5,725 base bid and $863 alternate bid by Persico Paving Co. The work is to be completed before school opens Sept. 2.

Superintendent Leroy Olson reported to the board that the state has approved the equipping of the proposed science room at Frankfort School under Title III of NDEA. This action by the state means that the cost will be partially paid from federal funds. The cost is estimated at $6,487.40. The federal grant will be 42 per cent of the cost, or $2,724.70.

The board also gave approval to the joint agreement for the special education cooperative of the Lincoln-Way district and its budget.

The board set the student fees for the coming school year. Books, for kindergarten, including milk, $10.50. Book fee for grades one through eight, $11.50 per pupil. Milk for the year (optional) will cost $6.25 per

Lemont Begins Main Clean-Up

10th St. Parking Issue Swells To City-Wide

By ANN KARKUT
LOCKPORT -- The Lockport City Council approved its budget and appropriations ordinance for the fiscal year at Monday night's meeting. The fiscal year starts July 1.

The total, including $5,000 for the working cash fund, is $392,150. The amount for general administration and corporate purposes is $89,600; planning commission, $800; police department, $161,350; audit cost, $3,500; street and bridge, $115,400; fall clean-up, $2,000, and police pension fund, $14,500.

Sven Nelson, council man and chairman of the finance committee, presented the budget and commented that the city should receive from $25,000 to $30,000 more in sales taxes next year, and police addition fines between $8,000 and $10,000.

The council also approved an ordinance adopting the one-fourth of a per cent sales tax. The state general assembly authorized municipalities to collect the extra money as part of legislation creating the state's first income tax.

A lengthy discussion took place on whether or not to change the parking on 10th Street from diagonal to parallel parking. The decision was tabled until the next session.

Gordon McCluskey, director of public works, said he hesitated to make a complete change to parallel parking throughout the city at this time. He argued that the number of meters would be halved. He said he favored doing one street at a time.

Frank Meyers, council man, was not in favor of drawing up individual ordinances each time the council decides to change parking.

Dick Cronholm, council man, said the change in meters for the street had been under study because it is congested and many accidents have occurred on it. He said making the change would give more room for traffic.

The council sought a solution to the problem created when trucks unload at the Ace Hardware Store, State and 10th streets. Trucks block most of 10th street to unload.

Council men suggested perhaps police could reserve parking spaces on 10th St. if the store owner Francis Miller could call when trucks were expected.

Mayor George Nordstrom said the council should go all the way in changing to parallel parking, or not make any changes at all.

The council was invited to the Shady Oaks Camp, Parker Rd., to attend an open house Sunday, July 27, at 2 p.m. The public has been invited to see the camp, also.

THIS MODEL of the proposed mall along Mokena's Front street was made by Boy Scouts of Troop 40. John Weber (right) is the scoutmaster. At the left is Cadet Cottingham, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce committee that is sponsoring the mall. The view here is from the rail station. The Rock Island has reportedly reduced its price on the property from $19,000 to $10,000, but there is a piece at the west end owned by Sheldon Hauck, New Lenox, which is priced at $11,500. The Chamber of Commerce has proposed that the Village of Mokena purchase the property with the understanding that the Chamber will repay the money. The model shows the proposed walks and plantings and the parking spaces.

Chaney Board Presents Tentative School Budget

By BEV SMUTNAK

CREST HILL -- Chaney School Superintendent A.L. Carpentier presented a tentative budget of $635,534.74 for the 1969-70 fiscal year for District 88 at the most recent meeting. The budget will be on file for public inspection from July 16 to Aug. 19 at which time it will be adopted.

The board hopes to raise $170,000 in revenue thru taxes. The state aid claim for 1969-70 is $284,700 based on the new $520 state aid foundation level. Revenue is expected to equal expenditures.

Budget breakdown is $513,200, educational fund; $42,000, building; $58,976.22, bond and interest; $6,000, IMRF; $15,358.53, site and construction.

Funds in deficit are building, $10,000; bond and interest, $2,576.22; and IMRF, $1,500.

Salaries take the biggest chunk with administrative salaries at $25,825 and 37 teachers' salaries, $335,000.

District 88 will invest $20,000 in special education. Deficits are anticipated in the pool costs for $3,500 and $1,500 in the athletic program. Textbooks will cost $8,000. Library and audiovisual equipment is $5,000 and instructional materials and supplies run $3,900. Custodial services add up to $35,000 next year.

The athletic department will spend $1,000 on tournament expenses; $500 for supplies and materials; $600 for travel expenses; and $400 for banquet costs for a total of $2,500. Income of $1,500 will be realized with a deficit of $1,000 anticipated exclusive of salaries.

A pool, a community service, will cost $8,500 to operate. Salaries amount to $5,000; contractual services, $1,000; materials, $2,000; and others, $500. Anticipated revenue may amount of $5,000 leaving a $3,500 deficit.

Red Cross swimming lessons began July 21 at Chaney pool for District 88 residents. Two week sessions are planned with the first one July 21 to Aug. 1. Session two runs from Aug. 4 to Aug. 15. Lessons are Monday thru Friday from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m.

The program is under the direction of volunteer Kathy Delkus assisted by Sandra Heisner. Water safety aide is Nancy Deklus assisted by Vicki Knight.

The school board voted five to one in favor of a $2 fee as charged in the past. A motion to charge was made by Tom Talarico, board member. The lone no vote was cast by William Colonna. Registration fee may be paid at the pool.

Long distance swim program, now in progress, reports 93 registrants. Distance swim changes its time to 10:15 a.m. to make way for the Red Cross program.

had heard the voice of Shor-ty Powers.

We moved on past the Min-ute Man missile launch sites and the spot from where Bon-nie, the space monkey was launched.

Passing launch complex 34 where the three astronauts lost their lives in a capsule fire brought a quiet prayer for the safety of the crew soon to fly to the moon.

From the past we moved on to the present and stood just a hundred yards from the Apollo 11. She was poised and ready to accept her pas-sengers. A thrilling sight to see and a man with me ex-claimed, "Who would be-lieve we would see this in our lifetime!" The count-down became more real after seeing the mighty missile.

Before leaving the Space Center we even had a glimpse of the future. In the vehicle assembly building Apollo 12 and 13 are being assembled and readied for their turns to go to the moon.

Television kept us inform-ed of the countdown and all was go.

The day before the shot saw people beginning to take their places on the beach and as the evening before launch came, those that were still in town kept moving their time of departure back from times like 4 a.m. Wednesday to midnight Tues-day. It was only a 10 min-ute drive to a good view a-long the beach but no one wanted to miss that right spot.

The excitement of the countdown didn't leave much desire for sleep. I just want-ed to be where everything was going to happen. So, shortly after 5 a.m. the brand new flyer took her seat to watch the greatest flight of all.

It was pitch dark and you did not need a light, for out on the pad stood the great rocket, bathed in white light, reflecting each beam a hun-dred times. It was a breath-taking sight to behold and could be seen for miles.

The count soon reached 3 hours 30 minutes and hold-ing. At this point I was told by the pros it would be a long wait yet. I have never seen the minutes slip by so fast. As you sit with busy news people, talking in all lan-guages, phoning stories all over the world, the fascination of it all takes away the slowness of waiting.

The official sunrise was past, the astronauts drove by in their van, and the feel-ing of tenseness grew.

The count kept coming, loud and clear across the stillness of the morning, 11-10-9 and, oh, my goodness, there was the flame, start-ing small and growing fast.

But no sound.

Then all of a sudden the roar and rumble had come across the three and a half miles between us and hit with a force.

The ground, the seats and my heart were shaking.

It lifted, slowly and surely.

The lady next to me shout-ed "GO!" but I could not find that much breath.

I just watched, with a feel-ing of joy for the men in that little spot on top.

We had prepared for this so long, waited weeks and hours for the rocket to car-ry these men on their mis-sion and all of a sudden it was gone, they were gone and the future was moving in-to the present.

My first plane ride had grown into the experience of a lifetime. It had carried me to a spot in history. I was there when they left to go to the moon.

OPINION PAGE

'An Infant Step'

The Moon no longer is a page in science-fiction. The dreams began long ago, but now man has achieved the impossible dream of setting foot on the lunar surface.

To be sure, the path was not an easy one. Failure and disaster dotted the course and tempered partial victories along the way with even greater desire.

But man's ambition and hunger for success always prevailed until his odyssey to the Moon today is a reality.

From the first suborbital mercury mission through the final lunar dress rehearsal of Apollo 10, every flight by our gallant astronauts has contributed importantly to the success recorded for all of mankind by Apollo 11.

In some ways this mission ends a decade of space exploration, but in more important ways it is only the first, infant step into the mystic universe.

We support President Nixon's insistence that the victorious American landing on the Moon be a universal effort. From the Italy of Galileo to the present, the men of many nations have played a part.

A silicon disk the size of a silver dollar with the inscription "From Planet Earth July 1969" imprinted on the rim contains the microscopic messages from 73 heads of state and remains in a plastic bag on the lunar landing site.

A plaque left behind on the leg of the lunar module Eagle heralds, "We came in peace for all mankind." Other mementoes honor both American and Russian space heroes.

And while astronauts Neil Armstrong, Edwin Aldrin Jr. and Michael Collins streak Earthward for a landing in the Pacific Ocean, there is new evidence of friendliness and mutual encouragement in space exploration between Russia and America. A feeling of good will has become obvious on both sides although each still is wary of the other's military intent.

Perhaps the new frontier may yet bring together the peoples of the world. The dreams of yesteryear then did not seem any more insurmountable.

The Age of Reasoning

On the whole they are a good lot, but as with anything a few rotten apples spoil the barrel. This statement seems to describe the teen population of the area today.

Teens on the average are a hard working, enthusiastic, moral conscientious group. When volunteers are needed to help in a fund drive, clean-up project, or a neighborhood beautification program, the teens come forward. They are concerned with what is going on around them. They become involved when adults stand aside saying "let someone else do it."

A typical teen-ager is interested in himself as an individual and in those around him. He concerns himself with others and their problems. He is interested enough to help in time of need or emergency. He retains a level head and very rarely goes on a rampage of throws a tantrum.

Becoming involved is one of his or her hang-ups. It seems that projects that a teen takes to heart are ones that are ignored by adults.

An average teen works for a living. During the summer he holds a full-time job and saves his money for things he wants. Even during the school year he or she manages to hold a part-time job and still manages to maintain an average set of grades. Many of the hard-working, involved teens are also above average honor students, which reflects good study habits and interest in school work.

Teens of today are leaders of tomorrow, as everyone knows. Each person passes through his or her teen years, and what they make out of them is what will form the basis for their lives to come.

Maybe the teens of today can straighten out some of the problems that face the world.

As leaders of tomorrow we can look forward to devoted leadership in the future.

2 Stars Burned Out

Chet Huntley and David Brinkley should get the prize for being the least emotional last Wednesday morning as the minutes ran out to the Apollo 11 liftoff.

In fact, television's golden boys really sounded bored with it all.

The hot shots of the air waves are losing some steam. NBC had best start looking around for some duo, trio or mono that can do a bit better.

Huntley and Brinkley seemed singularly unimpressed with the liftoff for the first attempt to land men on the moon. It doesn't speak very well for the network. If this is NBC's best, the front line troops so to speak, Jules Bergman and Walter Cronkite must be chuckling over their beer.

Television is everyman's opportunity to share on the spot events, to feel a part of them, to get involved with them. It's a shame the star performers can't generate some feeling of involvement for themselves and their viewers.

The last two minutes or so, however, was announced over all media by Jack King, Cape Kennedy's launch control announcer.

King caught the excitement and conveyed the drama of the first step in Apollo 11's eight-day date with history. He brought life to the otherwise deadpan NBC telecast of last Wednesday morning.

EXPENSIVE MEDALLION

Lesson In Learning

Trustees and administrators of school districts must be responsive to their patrons, they are learning.

It's a painful lesson for some because it has been learned at first hand. The more fortunate officials are getting the point by watching what is happening elsewhere.

Two notable cases in point are those of the Evanston School District 65 Board, and the Chicago Board of Education.

The Evanston board finds itself under a mouthy seige and its president now has a well-worn path to her door.

That board decided not to renew the contract of its superintendent, Dr. Gregory Coffin. A head-on collision with some elements of the community followed and the board has become a target.

The dilemma is how to react to the marches and demands for meetings with individuals and organizations. Typically, the board says it must conduct other business, and points out the decision has been already been made, anyway.

The board members must be confused: how do you respond to the parents (right or wrong) and all the while conduct regular business?

The Chicago Board of Education provides another example of unresponsiveness.

That board finds itself the subject beginning next month of an unprecedented investigation by a 12-man committee of state legislators.

The board got itself into this fix largely by being unresponsive. Some claim it started with ill feelings over busing school children and sex education policies. John Lanigan, Republican senator from Chicago who sponsored the resolution authorizing the probe, said it is in response to board financial policies.

Another factor is undoubtedly that the board president and its superintendent refused to talk with legislators about school problems, while at the same time their hands were out for more cash from the state.

Lanigan and his backers had to overcome some hefty opposition to get the investigative committee approved, but they did and they feel it is worth the trouble. They are in touch with their constituents and know what they will respond to.

Smaller school boards aren't without problems either. When an issue, for example sex education comes along the wrath of the more concerned school patrons can appear.

It is sad to see a school administrator or trustee fumbling over how to handle parents who find an issue and demand answers. If reasonable inquiries aren't answered promptly and honestly, or if there's a tendency to beat around the bush when parents find something to be concerned about, school district brass find themselves in hot water.

The wise school district officials look around and learn their lesson from what they see.

A Critical Distinction

"What is customer relations?" is asked in a publication of a major oil company. It's more than cold, impersonal service, the article points out.

It means giving every customer "very important" treatment, approaching the customer's car with respect and thanking customers by name and asking them to return. Comprehension of why a business firm must bother with so-called customer relations is especially important. It dramatizes the all-important distinction between private enterprise and a "public service" as run by government.

Private enterprise no matter how big, unlike government, depends upon the voluntary patronage of its customers. It pleases them or goes out of business. Customer relations is a life and death matter.

Customer relations may mean caring for your car. It may involve seeing that the customer gets a good suit of clothes, the kind of shoes he wants or meeting his wishes at the store counter for any one of a thousand items.

It is well to remember "customer relations" is of little importance except in a free society under a representative form of government.

The Census Bureau's latest family income study shows that educational attainment of the family head is definitely correlated with family income. In families with incomes under $2,000 in 1967, the median number of school years completed by the family head was 8.3. Thereafter, the median years attained tended to rise, reaching 16.1 years for heads of families in the $25,000 to $50,000 income bracket.

Practically Speaking

"You will always stay young if you live honestly, eat slowly, sleep sufficiently, work industriously, worship faithfully — and lie about your age."

"Did you know," queries a national magazine, "that nearly 70 per cent of America's people now live in metropolitan areas — which comprise only one per cent of the nation's total land?"

Secret Arts Of The Watermelon Lover

By GLENN LOGAN

Watermelon time is here again, and with it the problem that has confronted man since he discovered this succulent fruit that when properly chilled tastes so refreshing on a hot summer day.

The problem is selection. How does one go about picking a good melon out of a big mound?

There have been two major schools of thought on the art, or magic, of selecting a watermelon -- thumping and plugging.

In thumping one uses the mb to serve as a lever for the middle finger and let 'er go, striking the rind, or outer covering of the melon. The sound of the impact of fingernail on rind tells the thumper whether the melon is ripe.

Scholarship Presentations

LEMONT -- Lemont Mayor John J. Kujawa recently made scholarship presentations to the outstanding graduates at SS Cyril and Methodius School.

Accepting the awards from Mayor Kujawa were Roberta Hoster, Sandra Korelc, Michael Zurn, Mary Lou Nagel, Jeffrey Kendzora and Nancy Tasharski.

What is the sound like? Your scribe is unable to describe it. As a matter of fact he would like to know himself for he has thumped quite a few melons in his time and has never been sure just what the sound should be.

However, one must admit that one creates a good image -- the image of the expert -- through this thumping routine. It is something like joining half a dozen men clustered about the open hood of a stalled automobile.

None of them know what is wrong but all are gazing intently at the engine. You don't know anything either, but if you narrow your eyes, purse your lips, say "Hm-m-m-m," and walk away before anyone asks you anything, chances are the people there will decide you are such an expert that you had recognized immediately it was something very simple that they should see for themselves and if they couldn't you weren't going to take the time to tell them. The same goes for thumping watermelons.

The plugging method is not as showy but it is surer. The pluggger reaches down in his pocket, whips out a knife, opens the blade and plunges it in the side of the melon -- three times if he favors the triangle cut or four times if he fancies a square plug.

He then lifts out the plug, bringing up a bit of the meat that you can taste. The hole gives you a look at some of the seeds maybe. There is no skill or special knowledge one must employ if plugging, as must be used in thumping.

But with the price of watermelon today few people buy a whole one anymore, and they don't have to. The markets cut them in halves and quarters and keep them on ice. No thumping, no plugging.

The farm bureau people of the Cooperative Extension Service say thumping is out.

Extension service economists say there is no absolute way to tell which watermelon is best when it is still wearing its hide.

In cut melons, says Beatrice Bagby, "extension adviser in home economics, look for "firm, juicy flesh with good red color . . . Avoid those with a hard white streak in the flesh . . . Seeds should be dark brown or black." Look at the shape and the rind if buying an uncut melon, she says, and advises taking one with a relatively smooth surface and symmetrical shape. The rind should not be shiny or dull--just slightly dull, and the underside that had contact with the ground should be a creamy color.

Despite this advice and the pronouncement that thumping is out, we believe the watermelon thumper will continue to ply his skill for years to come.

When your scribe was young, he and his contemporaries frequently made use of the scramble method in selecting watermelons. One simply raised a melon above ones head and let 'er go--kerplunk!

Then one selected the pieces that stayed upright and ate them. As far as he can recall no one was trying to find the best melon.

Some watermelons may be better than other watermelons but when one is young there are no bad watermelons.

Things I Had Forgotten I Had

By Jackie Freitag

I am a "collector," a female collector. Some people would refer to me as a pack-rat, but I don't believe it. Just because I keep everything from soup to nuts my family thinks I am crazy.

The other night I decided to clean out my 12 junk drawers. That's right, 12 junk drawers. I thought that Christmas had come right in the middle of July. I found things that I had even forgotten I had.

In the first drawer I found notes from my girl friends in high school. Having been out of school for quite a few years now, and having received them my freshman year in high school, they are relics in their own time. Re-reading them really brought back memories, and a few good laughs.

Even more hilarious was the finding of some of my old test papers, which I evidently had not studied for judging from the answers.

I finally gave up and filed them in the left hand corner of my drawer, not quite knowing when I would need to refer to them again.

The next thing I came across were the old, dried-up corsages that I had during my school years. Every girl keeps these, but most of them press the flowers in wax or some other preservative....not me.

After cleaning up the dried old petals which had fallen off into the drawer, I filed them in a plastic bag and put them in the other corner of the drawer. I figured if things really got bad with my present flame I could always bring them out and reminisce.

After the papers and flowers were sorted through, I came across the best part of the whole collection...my old baton and uniform from the high school band. One look at the uniform and I was once again taken over with memories. Oh those parades, bus trips and football shows. To do it all again would be great.

After crying over my high school years, which seemed to pass in from of my eyes, I decided that it was really time that I threw something away.

After going through my old socks from physical education, old magazines, yearbooks from seventh grade through to high school graduation, and all of my personal objects (test papers, notes, and books), I decided that the things that I could spare were a piece of black thread, the combination to my old locker, and a piece of paper with a phone number on it that was out of order.

After all you never can tell when you just might need those old ripped tennis shoes, or those papers done on Sigmund Freud's effects on literature, or the synopsis on all of William Shakespeare's comedies.

These things someday might be worth something.... so don't throw them away. Maybe next year I will be able to finally get a couple of drawers to put my clothes in.

Urging Meeting Turnout

Editor

Have you heard about the "long, hot summer"? If we allow the proposed landfill for the Mt. Vernon Memorial Hills Cemetery, located at 119th and Archer Ave., our future summers will not only be hot, but we will have to put up with the smell, bugs, rats and possibly fires.

The owner of the cemetery will be putting a dump in our backyards. If you can't see it from your kitchen window you will certainly be able to smell it for many, many miles around.

Of course, Mr. Cemetery Owner isn't going to be bothered with the smell, the rats or even the way it looks. Why? He doesn't live in the Lemont area.

The Zoning Board will hold the hearing on Monday, Aug. 11, at 1:30 p.m. at the Lemont Village Hall. To show our protest against the landfill won't you attend this meeting.

Sincerely,
Mr. and Mrs. William Morris

SCHOOL BOARDS are not easy to serve on these days according to a report in the American School Board Journal. So perhaps you prospects for next April's election better think it over carefully.

First of all, school boards should remember what they are says the article. That is, a board is a public body created by the state and subordinate to the state. What is forbidden to the states is forbidden to the school districts.

In essence, the courts will not tolerate anything that resembles a violation of the Fourteenth Amendment--anything that tends to deny anybody, including young students, due process of law or equal protection under the law.

What is due process of law? Boardmen have already been made acutely aware that they are required to proceed in a fixed manner whenever they discipline a student or teacher.

Person being disciplined must be given an opportunity to be heard and must be notified a reasonable length of time in advance of the hearing on exactly what the board intends to prove against him.

This gives the accused person time enough to prepare his defense against specific charges.

In the second place, the disciplined person has the right to be represented by someone of his own choosing. Third, he must be allowed to cross-examine witnesses against him and be given power to compel the attendance of witnesses in his behalf.

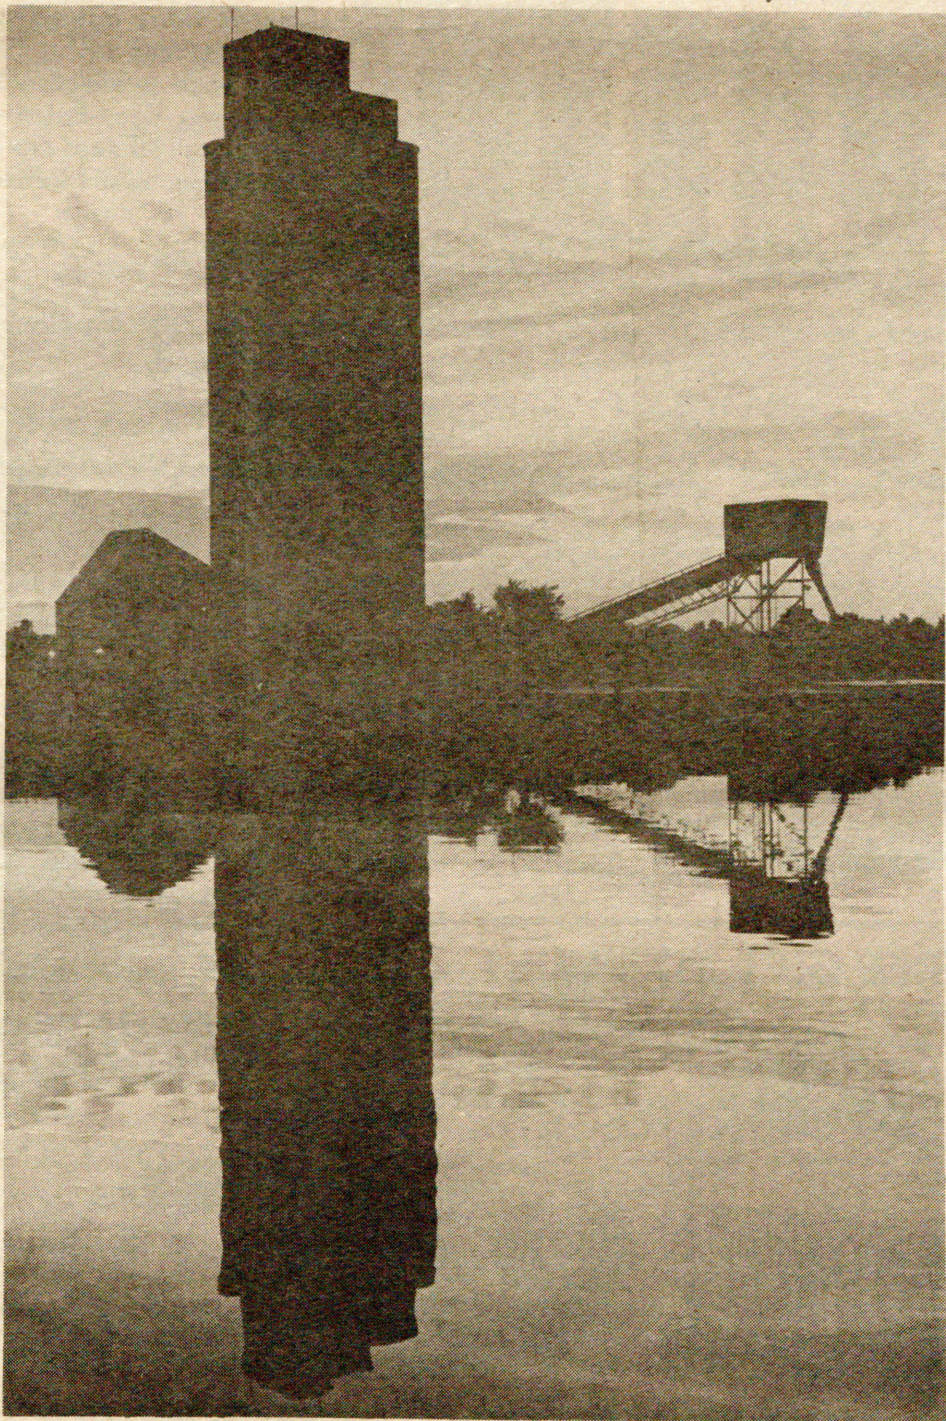

Fourth, an impartial body then hears the evidence of both sides and makes a finding of facts. Then, if the accused person, in his opinion, feels that any elements of a fair trial have been denied or the law improperly applied to the facts, he may be allowed to appeal until he does obtain fair trial. And if the school board tries a shortcut, it will more than likely end up in court.

School boards that attempt to stand in the way of freedom of speech or freedom of the press will more than likely find themselves in deep trouble. It's not easy to be a school board member, is it?

Censorship by school boards should be approached with extreme caution and avoided where possible. According to Justice Stewart's opinion in Ginsburg versus United States, "Censorship reflects a society's lack of confidence in itself. It is a hallmark of an authoritarian regime . . . A book worthless to me may convey something of value to my neighbor. In the free society to which our Constitution has committed us, it is for each to choose for himself . . ."

School boards should become more venturesome and imaginative or students will intensify their attacks on the system--the Establishment. Lesson is not to shy away from controversial teachers and different curriculums. They both can provide creative thinking. You want students to think creatively and you want to provide them with a challenge so they will want to stay in school and not become dropouts.

If you don't provide youngsters with challenge they soon lose interest no matter what kind of curriculum you provide them with.

Reach Salary Agreement

BY LOUISE SCHALLER
ROMEIOVILLE -- Teachers of District 96 Schools have accepted a salary and fringe benefit package. A mutual agreement was reached at a meeting July 11 of administrators, board members and teacher representatives.

Dollar amounts fall somewhat short of the levels proposed by the three man fact finding committee but greater equity will be given a larger number of staff members.

Fact finders recommended that a referendum be held as soon as possible to increase the educational and building rates.

Part of the agreement calls for the establishment of a "round table" with teachers, administrators and board members taking part. This group will meet on a regular basis to discuss any problems.

William Kobliska treasurer, reported receipt of $11,068.43 from DuPage Township and $1,408.29 from Lockport Township in protested tax monies.

Attorney Eugene Korst sent a letter to William Sabo of the First National Bank of Lockport informing him the district does not need to sell tax anticipation warrants at this time.

Architect Sanger Westphal cited unfavorable weather as the reason for the outdoor work delay at Brook View School. Ridge View School masonry work should be completed within a week and air conditioning work at Valley View School is on schedule.

A meeting on bus maintenance facilities was scheduled for July 21. Bids for construction of this building were to be sent out following the meeting.

Acceptance of the 1969-70 budget was deferred to Aug. 25 at 8 p.m.

Social worker, James Ott, resigned. Raymond Hill was named assistant business manager.

Special Hearing Set For Aug. 18

Katharine Heisner
Telephone 479-9321

A hearing on the special assessment petition for sewer and water main extensions for Mokena will be in the Will County circuit court Aug. 18, according to George E. Sangmeister, village attorney.

The proposed improvements call for a six-inch water main on LaPorte Rd. to Scott St. and south on Scott and then west along Boyer Ct. to Wolf Rd. Along Wolf Rd. the extension will run north to connect with the 12-inch main that runs north along Wolf. The segment from Boyer Ct. to the south end of the present line will also be a 12-inch main.

The sewer main will connect with the present sanitary sewer system on Anna

Mokena

St. and will then cover the area to be served by the water main extension.

This area was annexed to the village recently at the request of the property owners who also asked the village to extend water and sewer service.

At the hearing Aug. 18 any persons concerned may raise objections if he has any, to the proposed assessments but the court will not be interested in whether he does or doesn't like the idea of having water and sewer service. The time for that has gone by.

The assessments, which have been spread by George Barber, of Milford Engineering, village engineer, total $45,226.70, and can be paid off over a 10-year period.

Seek To Fill Board Vacancy

LOCKPORT--Fulfillment of a vacancy created by the resignation of Mrs. Helen Whalen, library board trustee, was discussed at length at the most recent library session. Mrs. Whalen has moved out of the district. She was elected in the April contest and garnered the most votes.

At the suggestion of Al Trezza, consultant and official of the American Library Association, the only fair way to fill the vacancy is to ask for letters of intent from interested area residents.

Board asks that letters be sent to the library between now and the next board meeting Aug. 19. This will be a temporary appointment until the next election in April, 1971.

Resignation of Karen Bruce was read and accepted by the board. The problem with the bank regarding the library's use of the parking lot was brought up. Library board will draft a letter to send to William Saho, bank president, confirming the agreement as previously stated.

Kiefer; and concluding the program will be the "Star Spangled Banner."

Water Causes Sewer Flooding

NEW LENOX -- The village of New Lenox, like other communities in the area, is finding getting complaints relative to sewers backing up and the authorities there are checking up on people who are using the sanitary sewers to carry off their roof water.

Under state law it is forbidden to hook downspouts on homes and any other buildings so that water drains into the sanitary sewer.

Recent heavy rains have caused trouble in practically all communities. It is difficult most village officials admit, to get the people to follow the law in regard to roof water. Smoke tests show the violations and violators and New Lenox is considering running more tests.

The state water board has found fault with the sewer system serving Sunset Train, the multiple dwelling complex along the west side of Cooper St. south of U.S. 30.

This sewer was built by the developer, William Bolker, a New Lenox contractor. He appeared before the village board last Wednesday night affirming he could hook into a sewer line. He has built a multiple dwelling for a customer on the east side of Cooper, across from Sunset Trail.

He did not discover until last month, Bolker said, that he couldn't get a permit from the state water board to make a connection with this sewer.

Mayor Joseph Hartung told him that every endeavor was being made to get the matter straightened out. It is a problem, he pointed out, that was inherited from the previous administration.

This sewer system has been a source of argument from one point or another between the village and the developer almost from the time it was built.

The village board has instructed the attorney to draft an ordinance making Pine St. a through thoroughfare from U.S. 30 to Fourth Av., except for the intersection with Haven Av. That intersection is to be a four-way stop.

The action was taken because Pine street carries a lot of traffic and most of it has little or no regard for vehicular movements on the side streets. There have been numerous accidents at intersections and the village board hopes making Pine a through street will improve the situation.

Crest Hill Council Purchases System

By BEV SMUTNAK
CREST HILL--Hillcrest Water System will be purchased for $150,000 by Crest Hill. Council adopted the resolution to purchase the company known as the Hillcrest Service Corporation as a move "advantageous to the city."

Water company assets are valued at $150,000. For their money, Crest Hill will acquire the well, water tower, sewage treatment plants, certain easements, treatment facility and necessary easements for repairs.

Purchase is subject to the city getting $100,000 financing.

Settlement was reached with the Tomich family over long standing financial matters. City entered into an agreement with Tomich in June of 1963 whereby Tomich would rent the oxidation pond to the city at a $2 charge per customer monthly. Total now due Tomich is $2,926. A sum of $1,914 is also due Tomich for certain property easements. In all, the city owes Tomich $4,840.

In an agreement entered

April 24, 1967, Tomich agreed to pay the city $4,440 he owed them for tap on fees. Council voted to pay Tomich the $4,840 and Tomich paid the city $4,440.

Alderman Richard Colombo was persistent and "talked up" the Gaylord storm sewer project until a motion to authorize bids be submitted for the Gaylord storm sewer and Center St. storm projects be passed.

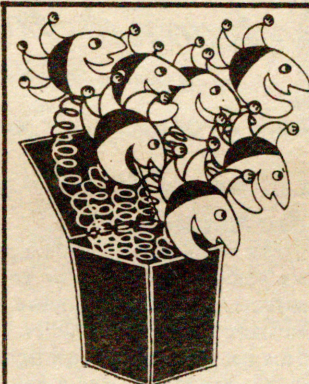

Motion by Alderman George Liker to defer the Gaylor project until the water and sewer lines were installed in Richland or until sanitary sewer and water project was cancelled drew negative votes from Tomich, Sealy, Harris, Ficke and Colombo. Aye votes were cast by Mulvey, Liker and Gale. Motion died for lack of a majority.

In answer to a query by Alderman Bob Mulvey about the four inch plastic line installed at the Crest Hill library site, City Engineer Bob Hamilton told the council that certain "plastic pipes are acceptable" and this particular pipe was acceptable under the state plumbing code.

Council agreed to waive a $40 tap on fee to the Lockport Park District on the sheltered building the park district is constructing at Richland Park.

Council concurred with Police Chief Joe Eaker's request to set the auxiliary police squad at a maximum of 15.

Crest Hill received $5,073.36 in June motor fuel tax funds. Bills approved totaled $14,483.71.

Stars Popular With Gals

SOUTHWEST -- The booming popularity of fortune-telling is being boosted by mature women flocking to astrologers to find out what the stars have in store for them.

A survey of astrologers and practitioners of such occult arts as palmistry and numerology reveals that many women over 40 consult them. Usually these women seek help or predictions about marital difficulties, problems with children, or advice about careers and health.

Numerologist Perry Robinson says that most of his clients are women over 40. "Most of them are interested in love. Many of them are divorced. They want to know if they will get married again."

On the other hand, the mature women who seek the services of Phyllis Woodbury are less interested in romance than a weekly paycheck. "Mature women are asking one question of me, what can I do now that I have raised my family?"

Mrs. Woodbury practices astrology, numerology, phrenology and palmistry. She encourages women in their career quest. "After analyzing their names and handwriting I say if they want to go into any specific field it's never too late, because the brain is never asleep. Maybe society is, but never the brain."

Many mature women admit that they consulted stargazers because they were prompted by "curiosity." Zolar, a prosperous New York astrologer, concurs. He estimates that "about 80 per cent of the people interested in astrology these days do it mainly for the fun of it."

Astrologer Elizabeth Martell is convinced, however, that the ego plays a role in horoscope readings: "All people want to hear about themselves, what their wishes are, where they're going and what's in store for them," she said.

The seeming paradox of occult arts -- including witchcraft, which is popular with many disaffected, young adults -- flourishing in a scientific age, has been explained by many authorities. Looking back at history (instead of up at the stars) they point out that occultism has always bloomed in times of confusion and uncertainty.

Whatever the reasons, no one doubts the phenomenal popularity of astrology at present. There are the daily guides and zodiac news published in newspapers and women's magazines; astrology cookbooks and cosmetic guides, and zodiac signs are beginning to embellish everything from writing paper to children's clothing. Across the country, department stores are mounting astrological promotions while astrologers are being hired for charity balls and benefits.

The mounting demand for horoscopes has swollen the ranks of stargazers. At present there are about 10,000 full-time and 175,000 part-time astrologers in the United States. To take up the slack, one company has put a computer to work turning out 10,000 individual readings every two minutes.

For the more affluent client, astrologers render personal services for an annual retainer. This service includes the right to wake up the astrologer in the middle of the night for help or predictions. One actor called his astrologer, Carroll Righter, in the middle of the night, from Hong Kong, to find out when his twisted ankle would heal. Righter is the best-known and most successful astrologer in this country.

Health is also a question on the minds of women who consult the practitioners of these ancient arts. One woman of 50 consulted a palmist to ask about her lifeline. "I wasn't feeling too good. She didn't say anything about my health but told me to see a gynecologist."

Women who do not believe in Shakespeare's words that "The fault . . . lies not in our stars but in ourselves," and consult an astrologer, must be prepared to furnish not only the time but date of birth. As astrologer Elizabeth Martell points out: "Astrologers are really the only ones who know a woman's age."

Knock First -- Then Enter

Dear Miss Brookfield:

My mother has become a problem. My Husband is a graduate student, and when we got married eight months ago, my parents offered us a house they own, rent free, while my husband finished his studies. It seemed like a good idea at the time because money was tight for us and still is. The trouble is that my mother has a key to this house and she barges in, at all hours, uninvited. She refuses to knock, insisting that "We're all family." She is driving my husband wild. He says he now believes all those jokes about mothers-in-law. What can I do?

B. K., Santa Rose, Calif.

Dear B. K.:

The housing offer could well have been made with the best of intentions but obviously emotional strings are attached, and they're tied to you. Talk to your mother without anger -- and, if necessary, your father -- to help her understand the wisdom of not using the key to invade your privacy. She too was a young bride once, so perhaps she can be made to realize the importance of the early years on the future of your marital happiness.

While you do not say so, I suspect you are an only child. If so, it may take an extra measure of tact and patience to help your mother understand that if you are old enough to marry, you are old enough to be treated as an adult. If all else fails, study your budget again. A new "landlord" may involve some sacrifice but it may well be worth the move.

Divorced at Fifty

Dear Miss Brookfield:

Is it possible to feel as if life is over at 50? I sit around staring at the four walls, feeling blue and depressed. About a month ago, my husband asked me for a divorce. He told me that for the last five years, there has been "another woman." Of course, she is much younger. I thought I had a good marriage so you can imagine my surprise. We have two children, both married. I was looking forward to the "second forty" years with my husband. What can you suggest?

D. S., Grand Rapids, Mich.

Dear D. S.:

You have to feel hopeful not to feel hopeless, and good health and activity will help. First, visit your physician for a check-up. Along with the news of the divorce, your depression may be aggravated by the psychological changes brought on by the menopausal and post-menopausal period. At such a time, the ovarian production of the hormone, estrogen, lessens. It is now possible to combat the effects of hormonal decrease with estrogen replacement therapy.

Next, start planning for the many years ahead. If it interests you, return to work; if you can afford to, take a trip. A change of scenery will do you a world of good. No, life does not end at 50. There's a big world out there, with plenty of challenges to keep you occupied and many people and children -- in hospitals and foster homes -- that need help. In helping others, you will be healing yourself. So, get busy.

Have you a problem as a mature woman, or with one? For advice and help write to Margaret Brookfield, Graphic Newspapers, 200 Main St., Lemont, Ill. 6-439.

Everytime Treat

SOUTHWEST -- It is uncertain that the origin of the work "muffin" is "moufflet," which is Old French for soft (bread).

However, it is very much a sure thing that the cup-shaped, quick, light bread is always a treat when served, warm and fragrant, with any meal any time.

Here is a recipe for date bran muffins that any family will welcome. Sift 3/4 cup sifted flour, 1 tablespoon baking powder, and 1/2 teaspoon salt together. Add 1 cup bran and 1 8-ounce package of imported diced dates. Beat 1 egg. Add 1/2 cup milk, 1-1/2 tablespoons dark molasses and 1 tablespoon melted butter. Mix. Add dry ingredients to egg mixture.

Mix only enough to dampen flour. Fill 12 greased muffin pans, or muffin papers, 2/3 full. Bake at 400 degrees for 25-30 minutes, or until muffin tests done. Serve with certainty!

Oriental Patio Party

SOUTHWEST -- For a cool summer party try the Oriental mood. It's exotic, different and quick. String Japanese lanterns and oriental wind chimes across the patio.

Key the menu to this oriental atmosphere by serving Lemon Cantonese Spare Ribs, with fluffy white rice and pitchers of refreshing lemon-laced, iced tea. A graceful Chinese bowl filled with fresh melon balls, pineapple and berries completes the simple, but special menu.

Convenient bottled lemon juice is a prime ingredient. It turns on the taste of the ribs. A few drops in the boiling rice keeps it white and fluffy.

CANTONESE LEMON SPARERIBS

- 2 pounds spareribs
- 3 Tablespoons brown sugar
- 2 Tablespoons cornstarch
- 1/4 cup bottled lemon juice
- 1 can (1 lb., 4 oz.) crushed pineapple
- 2 Tablespoons dried onion flakes
- 1 chicken or beef bouillon cube
- 1/2 cup water

Drain and reserve pineapple, pouring juice into a saucepan with 1/2 cup water. Bring mixture to boil, and dissolve bouillon cube. Add brown sugar, cornstarch, salt, bottled lemon juice, onion flakes, and cook until sauce thickens, stirring constantly.

Cut ribs into sections which fit easily on barbeque grill, and cook for 1 hour 20 minutes, turning occasionally. Brush ribs with glaze. During last 20 minutes of cooking time, when ribs are tender and turned for last time, spoon on crushed pineapple and allow it to brown. Makes four servings.

A Mother's Lament: 'Child Won't Eat'

SOUTHWEST--"My child won't eat!"

That seems to be the cry of many young mothers today. Mothers know what it means to have a well balanced meal for children, and even for father.

"What can I do as a mother to get my family to eat correctly?" This is the second lament of mothers everywhere.

The first and hardest advice to these mothers is to relax, says Nancy Gerner, executive director of the Dairy Council of the Tri Cities.

No normal child is going to starve in the midst of plenty. When he vacates the center of the stage, or has the rug pulled out from under him by having mother calmly walk out and let him alone, he'll eat. When he gets ready. And that will be time enough.

There are several reasons why the toddler doesn't eat as his parents wish he would: his growth has slowed down since he was a baby, and he doesn't need as much food; he begins to have likes and dislikes; he likes to dawdle and play over eating; and he loves the limelight and the attention he is getting.

Therefore mothers must not expect him to eat as much as they think he should. If he is healthy and gaining, he is eating enough. Consider his likes and substitute other and equally nutritious foods for those he doesn't like. Be patient, but not too patient, with his time-wasting.

When your child gets a bit disrespectful about the four groups of essential nutrients, just add a fifth ingredient--spice the meal with a bit of loving toughness and a smidgen of judicious neglect. Your toddler will still love you for it.

THERE ARE TWO sides to every story, and this is just one of them. Lockport is getting a new face lifting. Work is presently being done on a new bridge to replace the old 9th St. swing bridge. In photo at right, the pillars are standing for the bridge; note crane on far side of river to left of pillars. In the background is St. Dennis Church, an old Lockport landmark. In the top photo we look at every thing the way the operator of the crane does. The photo is taken out of town, with the same pillars in view. Cars in the background are headed out of town on 9th St. Beyond is Rt. 53.

Two Sides To Every Story

Steamers Building Head Up

SOUTHWEST -- Steam power buffs will descend on Fred Francis 4-H Field, New Lenox Township, July 31 and Aug. 1, 2 and 3 when the Will County Threshermen's Association will hold its seventh annual steam threshing show.

Francis Field is on Francis Rd., three miles west of Mokena or a mile east of Cedar Rd. in New Lenox.

Activities will begin at 10 a.m. each day and run until 5 in the afternoon. A parade of the steamers and some ancient fuel tractors will be held each afternoon at 2 o'clock.

A square dance will be after the show on Saturday, Aug. 2, with Thomas (Bud) Rowden, a professional doing the calling.

On Sunday afternoon, Aug. 3, following the parade, the Joliet Park District Chorus will give an hour's program, singing old sentimental favorites and western songs.

The Will County Extension Homemakers Association will provide meals at LOCKPORT--Seaman Dennis Rigoni, USN, is serving with the U.S. Naval Support Activity in Danang, Vietnam. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Rigoni, 314 Clinton.

ALL IS NOT ROSES

WILL COUNTY -- Lloyd Erickson, of Elwood, says a lot of work goes into preparing a machine for the steam threshing show.

Painting is quite a problem, he said, as is getting parts.

You can purchase decals that are duplicates of the originals, but it is harder to match the original paint. First you have to find some paint left on the machine to get a color match. The job gets more complicated if you have to do a lot of striping, he said.

Parts are a problem. Sometimes the only way to get them is make them from scratch.

noon. The facilities at Francis 4-H Field include free parking, bleacher seats, shade, rest rooms and good water. Motels are within a two to five mile radius.

Those in charge say at least seven steam engines will be in operation daily, demonstrating their prowess in plowing, wood sawing, oat threshing, corn shelling and feed grinding.

Some of the steamers will be running separators. A delicate balancing operation, using a teeter-totter, is on the card to test the ability of operators to control the ponderous vehicles.

Several special exhibits are scheduled this year, including a hand-built steam locomotive, passenger cars and tracks. All this represents practically two year's work by three Mokena men, Guy Moses, Frank Peterson and Ernest Westphal.

A Stanley Steamer engine connected to a chain drive powers the train. The three men also will exhibit several Stanley Steamers.

The Women's Auxiliary of the Threshermen's Association is also having a hobby fair and an antique market in conjunction with the show. It is also sponsoring the square dance and on Aug. 2 will have an all-day bake sale. The antique market will feature household items and there will also be a display of other household antiques.

There is a $1 per person admission charge. The fee helps to pay expenses of the show, especially the cost of transporting machinery.

KESTEL STARTED IT ALL

WILL COUNTY -- The Will County steam threshing show had its beginning six years ago as sort of a one-man affair.

Now, it's one of the best all-round antique farm exhibitions in the state.

Ray Kestel, the president of the Will County Threshermen's Association, started it. In 1963, 1964 and 1965 he cut, bound and threshed oats with steam power on his farm near Manhattan. It is expensive to do a show alone, so in 1966 the Will County Threshermen's Association was formed.

There were 42 members, with five threshers and five steam engines. They also had an assortment of other antique farm equipment. As of this year the association has 400 active members and plans to have 100 large machines in the show and over 250 small ones.

Other officers of the threshermen's association are Harlow Nicholson, Manhattan, vice-president; Frank Clow, Rockdale, secretary and Gary Fellows, Manhattan, treasurer.

Promote Union Workers

LEMONT -- Recently promoted to maintenance supervisors at the Lemont Refinery of the Union Oil Company of California, were Grant H. Oberg, Howard G. Davis and Rudolph A. Gotlund.

Oberg of 1027 Grandview Ave., Lockport, started with the Pure Oil Division of the Union Oil Company of California in 1949, and has been in the instrument department since 1954.

Davis, employed in 1949, was previously in the Pure Oil Company's electrical department and resides at 614 Division St., Lockport.

Gotlund, who lives at 1137 McCarthy Rd., Lemont, started in 1949 and for many years was a pump repairman in the mechanical department.

Says Cost Passed 11-Year Rate

LOCKPORT -- Water and sewer rates went up effective July 1.

Gordon McCluskey, director of public works, explains that the 1958 water rate had to be adjusted because operating income is not enough to keep up with the rising cost of operating and maintaining the combined system.

There must also be enough money to allow a depreciation fund for major repairs and replacements, to allow a capital improvements program, payment of annual debt service, added cost of operating with the expanded treatment plant, and personnel hiring and training.

The increased water rate has not come about because of the recent bond issue to expand the plant to a secondary treatment plant.

Financing construction for improvements and expansion demanded by the Sanitary Water Board has been authorized through the general obligation bond referendum passed June 21.

If this bond issue had failed and revenue bonds were issued, the water user alone would have paid the cost because water rates would be increased above those already proposed.

To help pay for the recently passed bond issue was not correct as reported in a story that appeared last week.

Board of trustees of the Lockport waterworks and sewerage system recommended the water rates be established as set forth by a financial consultant.

Rates for the Combined system are $1.45 per 1,000 gallons for the first 10,000; next 60,000 gallons at 85 cents per 1,000; next 930,000 gallons at 55 cents per 1,000; and the next 1,000,000 gallons at 38 1/2 cents per 1,000 with a minimum rate of $8.50 per quarter for 6,000 gallons. Sewer rate minimum is $4.50 per quarter.

McCluskey points out that even with the increased rates Lockport residents will be paying from $4 to $6 less than their neighbors, Crest Hill and Joliet.

Chain O'Lakes The Finest Resort And Sport Area

weekend or an entire vacation.

As long ago as 1915, the Fox Chain O Lakes in Northeastern Illinois was acknowledged to be one of the most important outdoor recreation areas in the nation. In a report of the Rivers and Lakes Commission that year, it was stated that 4,000 boats existed in the Fox Lake waters.

Easy accessibility to one of the nations largest metropolitan areas has continued to multiply this importance, especially since the upsurge in water oriented recreation activity following World War 2. In addition to the existence of some seventy-five hotels, motels and resorts in the immediate vicinity of the chain, there are numerous marinas, restaurants, bait and tackle stores. There is no area in the eight counties surrounding Chicago with greater potential for meeting the varied recreation needs of the metropolitan area than the Chain O Lakes.

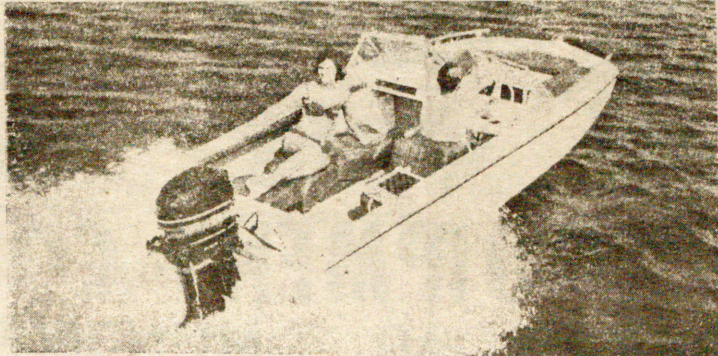

Camping is on the up-swing. More and more people are spending their weekends camping. This is a family sport. Pack the car -- grab the kids and relax in the great outdoors, roughing it. Learn about nature first hand. Facilities for the camping enthusiast are being expanded in both the state parks and resorts.

Boat and motors are for rent in the many resorts. You are welcome to bring your own motor to attach to a livery boat. (Small motors, please). For your protection - the lakes are patrolled by the United States Coast Guard, the State of Illinois, Conservation Wardens and the Lake County Sheriff's Police. All boats must have safety equipment aboard whether it be a canoe, motor boat or yacht.

Attex Is New Star For Year Long Fun

"Attex will become far more popular than the snowmobile by 1970," says Bob Strauss, vice president of Terra Equipment Company, 1270 Townline Road, Mundelein.

And with good reason! It's the fun vehicle that gives you enjoyment the year 'round. Over sand or snow, in water or in the hills, the Attex goes almost anywhere.

This newest and most versatile vehicle is at the top of the "most popular" list of the thrill and fun seeking public. Bob reports that an all-terrain vehicle race took place

July 13 at New Bethlehem, Pennsylvania. Attex swept all the races!

He likes Attex for hunting, and he has a great story to tell about hunting with the Attex.

THE GO-ANYWHERE

FUN VEHICLE

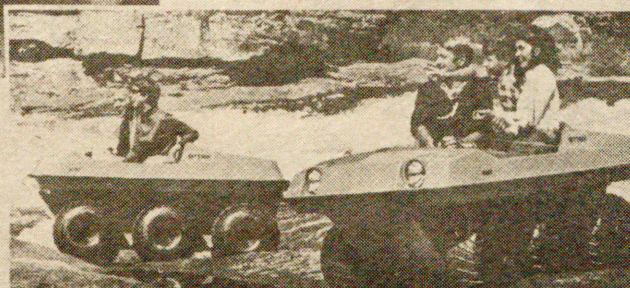

Year-Around Enjoyment

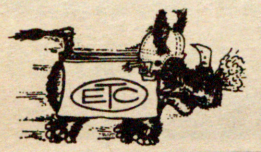

With one ride in an Attex you'll experience a new excitement, new thrills—a totally new and different kind of fun. The Attex goes most anywhere... across streams or ponds, through fields or forests, over a sandy beach or rocky terrain, and up steep hills (even a 45° grade.) An Attex literally shrinks the land and makes time stand still because it takes you where nothing else will go. Explore, scout, camp, or just go for a sight-seeing ride. Wherever you take your leisure—the mountains, the lake, the seashore, or the wide open spaces—take an Attex and discover a new world of fun.

With an Attex you can range far and wide. . . to locations that heretofore might have been too rugged or remote.

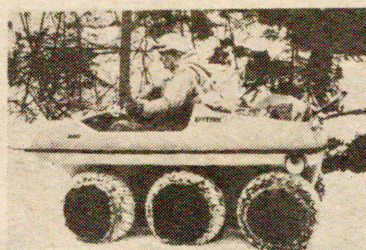

Drive your Attex on the rocky bank of your favorite trout stream -- work it with ease. Or, put a small outboard on the back of your Attex and you're all set for lake or bay trolling, or on your way to where they're really hitting.

If you're after deer or duck or even wild boar, an Attex will get you there quicker and easier, and back home or to camp sooner. (And with an Attex you don't have to wind up the day "beat, soggy, and footsore.")

Use Your Attex For Winter Fun, Too.

Your Attex will go in the snow or across a frozen lake. You can pull a skier, go ice fishing, or climb snow-covered mountain trails. With an Attex you can create your own special brand of Winter fun!

ANNOUNCING

CHAIN O'LAKES FISHING DERBY

Again this year, you are welcome to participate in the famous Chain-O-Lakes Fishing Derby. Why not cash in on the valuable prizes by entering your catch in this famous contest... men and women... boys and girls... enter as many fish as often as you like... you can only win one prize a week, but that's the only rule. Good fishing and good luck.

Look for copies of the official fishing derby news published each week for results of the contest.

HELPFUL HINTS FOR YOU TO WIN:

It's easy. Just go fishing, legally, naturally. Observe all Illinois Department of Conservation Regulations. Don't use dynamite or your mother-in-law for bait. When you have your boat filled to the gunwales with fish, head for the nearest Claiming Station and put the resort owner to work registering your catch. The best of your catch will be registered and if any are of sufficient size, a picture will be taken of you so that we can let the world know of your piscatorial prowess.

HOW MANY TIMES CAN YOU REGISTER?

You can register as many fish per week as you like but you can only win one prize per week. The judges will give you the benefit of the largest prize per week.

WHEN ARE WINNERS CHOSEN?

At 8:30 a.m. on the Friday following the previous weeks contest, entries are sorted at Sorenson's Bait Shop, Rtes. 59 & 173. Any interested party may be present to watch the proceedings. Soon as the winners are known the claiming station that registered the winner will be notified by phone and a letter will be mailed the winner notifying him to pick up his prize at the claiming station. If this is not convenient, we will ship same to all winners.

SWEEPSTAKES PRIZES.

Special Sweepstakes Prizes every week for all entrants. This is for the fisherman who gets the smaller ordinary run of the pond fish that can still be a winner. After all of the prize fish winners are chosen. We will take all of the remaining entries and put them in a drum and then draw 4 winners each week from this drum. The entries will stay in the drum giving you a better chance to be a winner. The drawings will be held at 8 p.m. each Friday during the contest at the State Bank of Antioch. Winners need not be present. We try hard to make everyone a winner.

TYPES OF FISH TO ENTER:

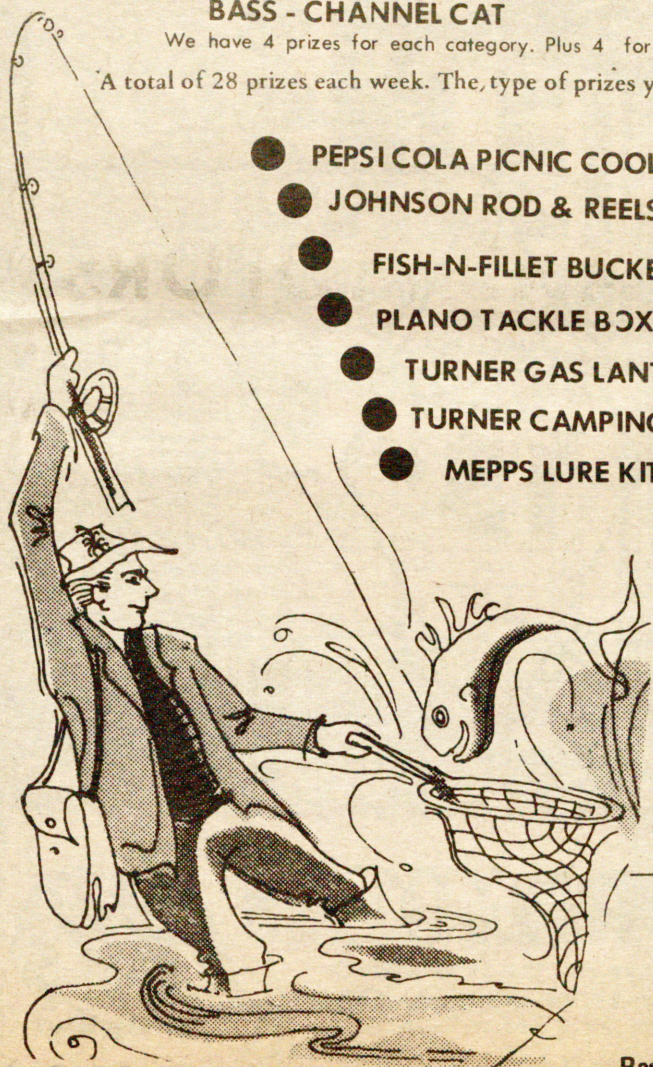

We have the seven most popular fish that inhabit the Chain-O-Lakes.

THEY ARE
NORTHERN PIKE - STRIPED BASS
WALLEYE - BLUEGILL - CRAPPIE
BASS - CHANNEL CAT

We have 4 prizes for each category. Plus 4 for the sweepstake WINNERS.

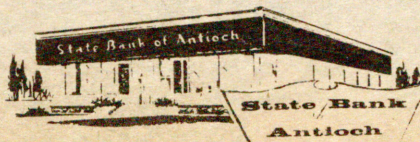

A total of 28 prizes each week. The type of prizes you can win are as follows:

- PEPSI COLA PICNIC COOLERS
- JOHNSON ROD & REELS
- FISH-N-FILLET BUCKETS
- PLANO TACKLE BOXES
- TURNER GAS LANTERNS

Backseat Driver Can Help

The so-called backseat driver can be an aid to good, safe driving, says the Chicago Motor Club-AAA, which offers these suggestions on how to be a helpful automobile passenger:

--Let the driver concentrate on the road and the car.

--Be a co-driver by devoting your attention to the maps, the radio, the children and other helpful chores. If a driver tries to do too many things at once there may be an accident.

--Never startle the driver. Don't shout to call his attention to a roadside attraction. His involuntary reflexes may snap his head around at your bidding and cause an accident.

--Don't bother the driver by continually pointing out hazards, signs and driving conditions that are obvious to him.

--Know your intended route so you can follow maps and be responsible for navigation.

--Don't sleep. Keep the driver company. Otherwise, he may doze into disaster.

--Talk with the driver. But don't nag, shout or anger him. Emotion has an important part in driving attitudes.

--Don't take driving for granted. It's a fulltime job for one person. If you think of yourself as a co-driver, you will make motoring easier, more pleasurable and help to "Bring 'Em Back Alive!"

Fox River Is Canoeing Favorite

First explored by LaSalle in 1680, the Fox River is considered to be one of the best for canoeing. A slow current and fairly uniform depth assure the canoeist of a pleasurable trip. The city park of Algonquin provides a free access point for canoes. Public ramps are not available in McHenry State Park.

Nature Wonders At Morton Arboretum

Acres of stately timbers rustle their silent litanies to nature's wonders at the world famous Morton Arboretum, located on Route 53, near Lisle, Illinois. These silent sentinels keep watch over this magnificent outdoor museum founded by Joy Morton son of Arbor Day originator J. Sterling Morton.

Since 1922, the Morton Arboretum has added to an already tremendous collection of trees, shrubs and vines, brought from all parts of the world.

Over 4,800 woody plant species are included in the growing Arboretum collection. Most unique among the many unusual species is the ancient Ginkgo Tree. Said to be the sole surviving plant that thrived millions of years ago, the Ginkgo Tree was first discovered growing in the temple gardens of the Orient. After their winter slumber millions of pastel blossoms burst forth and bedeck the woody plants with the first warm breezes of spring.

The bright blue days of October set the Arboretum ablaze with flamboyant autumn hues. Jack Frost and Sally Snowflake merge their talents as the north winds blow to paint a Christmas card portrait of the cathedral-like pines.

A hiker's haven, the Arboretum offers five trails, two of these are particularly notable: the 13 mile unmarked Arboretum Boy Scout Trail; and the Illinois History Trail, a brand new addition to the ever-expanding Arboretum. This trail opened in conjunction with the Illinois Sesquicentennial celebration held on Arbor Day of 1968. The Illinois History Trail features native Illinois trees and shrubs and is marked in its entirety.

An unusual Boutique and Tea Room, named for the ancient Ginkgo Tree, will please nature lovers with its collection of sundries. Nestled in the Arboretum Center Building, the Boutique and Tea Room are open seven days a week from April through December.

Hours from Monday through Saturday are 10:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The Ginkgo combination is open on Sunday from 1 p.m. to 4:30 p.m.

The Arboretum is a privately owned educational foundation, devoted to scientific research in arboriculture and horticulture. A climate and map station is located at the Arboretum where weather data is collected and soil maps prepared that lend pertinent information to climate and topography of the area.

The Arboretum is open every day of the year from 8 a.m. to sunset. Pedestrians are admitted free or cars may be parked just inside the entrance gates, free of charge. For visitors who wish to drive thru the magnificent outdoor museum, a nominal fee of $.50 is charged. Picnic facilities are available in a specially designated area only.

COLLISION COVERAGE

Collision coverage protects the insured against damage to his car whether or not he is at fault. Why is this important? Because the insurance company will fight your battle to recover. Consider the uninsured driver who might damage your automobile. Yes, you can bring suit against him, but it is much easier to let your insurance carrier reimburse you, and subrogate against the other driver in an attempt to collect. Even more awkward is the situation where the other driver is insured, but denies liability for the accident. This is an extremely sticky problem - and your insurance company is better equipped to handle it than most of us would be. We are not "car fixers" at Illinois Securities Co., 66 N. Chicago St., but we know some of the "mechanics" in getting the job done. Call us at 726-5376 for information when you have any question concerning automobile insurance.

TOM OLSON

Choral Director At Lincoln-Way Resigns

MOKENA-Tom Olson, of Mokena, director of choral music at Lincoln-Way High School for the past 13 years has resigned in order to return to his studies in graduate school.

Olson was largely responsible for the leadership and ability in the development of the well known choral program at Lincoln-Way. Starting with one small chorus, the program grew into a girls chorus, an outstanding boys' chorus, a mixed chorus, as well as freshmen and sophomore choruses.

The annual operettas and vaudeville shows that were put on under Olson's direction were well done and well attended. His various choral groups provided many programs for area and county organizations.

 During his tenure at Lincoln-Way, Olson's choral groups won 17 state Class A Superior championships, which contributed to the several state titles for Class A schools that have been won by the music department at Lincoln-Way.

 Olson was selected one year by the students at "Teacher of the Year."
 He will be succeeded by Charles Stark, of Roanoke, Ill. Stark is a graduate of Illinois State University at Normal where he obtained both his bachelor and master degrees. He has taught three years, one in the Normal Unit District and two in the Roanoke High School.

L-W Opening Half-Day Sessions

NEW LENOX - Freshmen at Lincoln-Way High School will attend school for half a day on Sept. 2, it was announced this week by Assistant Superintendent Jonas Lashmet. He outlined the schedule for the opening week of the 1969-70 term.
 All students will attend school for half a day Wednesday, Sept. 3. Regular full day sessions will begin Sept. 4.

Each half-day will run from 8 to 11:45 a.m. School buses will travel regular routes. If necessary bus schedules will be adjusted after the first several days of operation.
 Lashmet said it is important that all freshmen have their health and dental examinations completed before school opens. Students who are unable to show they have had these examinations will not be permitted to attend school after the first day.

 A newsletter from Superintendent Joseph Kruzich will be mailed to all Lincoln-Way parents about the middle of August. It will give all school opening details. Information relative to fees, insurance, dress code, etc.
 New students in the Lincoln-Way district are asked to register at the high school guidance office as soon as possible.

Drop Architect's Contract

LOCKPORT--Joliet architects Healy, Moore and Associates will no longer service District 205 High Schools. A letter was read from the firm at a July District 205 session. It stated the school's termination request was acceptable.

Board had requested attorney John Cirricione to send a letter requesting termination of the contract.
 Payment of $4,780 to the architect was agreed upon for previous bond issue addition plans to East and West High Schools.
 The termination was by mutual agreement between the architect and school board.
 The board will not have an educational meeting July 24, but will hold an executive personnel session.

Superintendent Harold Scholle said commencement for the coming year has been set for June 4 at Central and June 5 at West. College night will be March 25 at West High.
 Future District 205 board meetings will start at 8 p.m. rather than 7:30 p.m. The reason for changing time is so board members may meet earlier for executive sessions when needed while not inconveniencing visitors.

Open Letter from the HIRSCHS'
 Dear Friends, (Sound System)
 One of the modern conveniences of our service is the sound system installed in our funeral home. By means of this equipment, every word of the funeral service can be heard in the private family room. Recordings of the service can also be made for those unable to attend.
 We often wonder if the next twenty-five years will bring as many modern conveniences as the past twenty-five have.
 Respectfully, Carl H. Hirsch

Kollman Wins UARA Feature At Speedbowl

By SANDY CARTER

Bill Kollman of Orland Park had the fans on their feet as he slipped by Phil Stebbins of New Lenox, on the last lap to take the 40 lap feature of the UARA Midgets at the Mazon Speed Bowl Saturday night.

Bill Krueger of Lombard, was leading the feature when Jim Gates of Aurora, started making his move. Gates got by Krueger and from then on only a few inches were between them. They were lapping the field on the 31st lap, coming out of the first turn they came upon a slower car.

Krueger went low and Gates high, after getting by the midget, they made their move, and came together. They were both out of the race. Kollman went on to win with Stebbins second; Augie Brocker of Joliet, Tom Ward of Lafayette, Ind., and Ken DeBeau of Justice, following.

Gates took the first heat that ended on the yellow flag when Charlie Cook of Mokena, and Joliet's Ron Foster came together on the last lap.

Lemont Youth Compete In Junior Golf Tourney

By RUSS SANDBERG
LEMONT -- The Original Lemont Jaycee sponsored junior golf tourney was held at the Gleneagles Country Club on Monday, July 7, with a total of 32 area young men vying for top honors.
 Winning the event was ace Lemont High linkster Mike Bernatowicz, who turned in a fine round of 77. Mike also went on to capture top honors in the Chicago area meet held at Jackson Park.
 Greg Jemsek turned in a card which registered 78 strokes to take runnerup laurels. Both Mike and Greg will compete in the state Jaycee event scheduled to be run off at the Chevy Chase Country Club in Wheeling on July 21, 22 and 23.
 Following the July 7 outing, all participants were guests of the Original Lemont Jaycees at a banquet style affair, which besides featuring a fine dinner, also included the passing out of numerous door prizes.
 Providing most the background work were chairman Steve Otto and co-chairman

Gib Bromberek. It was through their efforts that this meet could be placed in a highly successful category.
 Besides Mike and Greg, other Lemont entrants included Frank Basco, Gary Marchbank, Bob Blum, Mark Kazich, Charles Sniegowski, Bruce Hoster, Howie Ludwig, Mark Bowman, Alvin Bromberek, Duane Koski, Jeff Kendzora, Paul Kromray, Bil Hamilton, Jack Bambrick, Gary Pirc.
 Also on the listing were Doug Johnson, Ken Zezulka, Jerry Zezulka, Kevin Radcliffe, Ron Rutkowski, Rich Hoffman, Robert Hoinacki, Gordon Zezulka, Pete Zajec, Steve Dobel, Terry Dauenhauer, Bob Nagel, Jim Browning, Bert Cattoni, Dan Festin.
 -o-
 Getting a chance to work on a regular basis has most certainly proved to be a healthy tonic for Lemont's contribution to professional baseball, Robert Dale Johnson.
 Pitching for the Memphis club in the AA Texas League, Bob just recently turned in a string of 3 successive shutouts, as his overall mark was upped to 5 wins and only 1 loss. Not to be overlooked is a terrific earned run average of 1.60.

 Johnson's chucking has helped to left the Memphis entry into first place in the eastern division of the Texas League.
 Earlier in the 1969 campaign, Bob was used strictly as a late inning relief man while toiling for the International League Tidewater Mets, but now given a chance to work on a starting basis, Johnson has responded in sensational style.
 Should the 6'4" 220 pound right hander continue at his present pace, the parent New York Mets could be making plans to move him back to Tidewater, or even better yet, Shea Stadium.
 Incidentally, Lemonters of an earlier vintage will remember that our Phil (Lep) Lundeen once hit some prodigious drives while playing first base at Memphis when it was a member of the old Southern Association.

 The board transferred $3,700 from the educational fund to the building fund to cover existing bills.

New Lenox Phones To Go Direct Dialing

NEW LENOX -- Direct distance dialing will become faster and easier for New Lenox telephone customers early July 26 when Illinois Bell activates new automatic equipment in the New Lenox telephone office.
 Telephone manager Bud Schager said an operator no longer will come on the line to request a caller's telephone number after he dials long distance.

Instead, the new equipment automatically will determine the number and send it on to a recording machine in Joliet. The number eventually will meet up with other vital information -- such as number called and length of conversation -- so the call can be properly billed.

Charge Lockport Man With Homicide

SOUTHWEST -- A man is dead, a child was injured, and a Lockport man is facing charges of reckless homicide as a result of a crash on Plainfield Rd., in the Crystal Lawns area, early Monday morning.

Dead is Gordon Goodwin, 30, of 2375 Plainfield Rd. Plainfield Township. He is a senior technician at Argonne National Laboratories. He was instantly killed when struck by an automobile driven by Charles Berard, 24, Rt. 3, Lockport. Goodwin was carrying his 5-year-old daughter, Carrie Ann, in his arms when he was struck by the car. The child was placed in the intensive care section at St. Joseph Hospital, Joliet, but her condition was reported as fair Monday afternoon.

The Goodwins had been at a neighbors to watch the moon walk. They were returning to their home, just a few doors away when the car driven by Berard allegedly failed to negotiate a curve and after striking Goodwin and his daughter, it zoomed thru a ditch, caromed off of a culvert and finally stopped after crashing into the Goodwin car which was parked in their driveway.

Berard was taken into court Monday afternoon. Besides reckless homicide he also was charged with failure to reduce speed.

NEW LENOX -- Four men appeared at the Texaco station operated by Jack Williams on U.S. 30 at the west end of New Lenox last Wednesday night and demanded money. At least one armed with a gun, according to the police report. They fled with approximately $130.

New Lenox police alerted county, state and Joliet police. A short time after the hold-up a Joliet police saw a car parked near Manningdale and brought the occupants in for questioning.

Charged with robbery are James Dockins, 24, 1217 Pequot St., Charles Glenn, 410 Patterson Rd., Melvin Adkins Jr., 109 E. Marion St. and Don White, 27, 117 Allen St., all in Joliet.

The money has not been recovered.

We're making some changes to speed up direct distance dialing for New Lenox

Starting Saturday, July 26, an operator will no longer come on the line when you dial a long distance call direct from a New Lenox telephone.

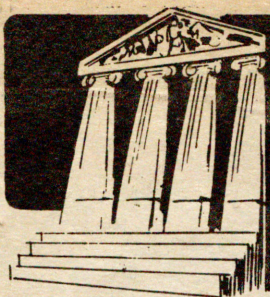

Instead, your number will be recorded instantly, automatically.

Of course, our operators will still be on duty 24 hours a day to handle calls that can't be dialed direct, to provide numbers not in your local directory, and to help you in an emergency.

We hope that you'll be as pleased with this change as we are. It's another step designed to make calling easier and faster for you.

Support Area Drive

LEMONT -- Employees of Silver Cross and St. Joseph Hospitals have pledged $250,646, Caterpillar Tractor Company $400,000, and the John M. and Mary A. Joyce Foundation $50,000. Donations are for the Joliet Regional Hospital Development Association fund drive in the Lemont area.

George P. Lloyd, chairman of the Pattern Gifts Division of the united drive and president of the board of trustees of Silver Cross Hospital, addressed Lemont volunteers recently. He said, "In today's world progress costs more than ever before. But who is to say we can not afford progress? In the health field we can not stop to raise the question - we must decide to keep going ahead in concern to our own health needs and those of our families in the Lemont and Will County community - with medical and hospital progress through daily breakthroughs."

Silver Cross Hospital will add 180 acute care patient beds, along with new x-ray, laboratory, emergency, technicians, coronary and intensive care departments. Out-patient facilities will be new.

St. Joseph will expand its emergency, psychiatric, radiology and laboratory facilities. In addition new rehabilitation services, 80 acute care beds, a coronary care unit, out-patient area and intensive care unit are to be added.

Also speaking was George C. Sprague, assistant to the administrator of Silver Cross Hospital; Edward O. Bossert, vice-chairman of the Lemont area division and superintendent of the Lemont Township Schools system; and Robert J. Kuebler, vice-chairman of the division and vice-president of the R.P. Donohoe Company.

In his talk, Bossert quoted the campaign slogan, "You can't buy your way into a hospital bed - if the bed isn't there."

In the initial phase of contacting Lemont business and industry, the 71 volunteers are making 162 calls. The physicians of the area have been contacted through the medical division. Dental doctors are being solicited in the division as a separate section.

The hospitals' story of history, present needs and future plans is available to all clubs, organizations and businesses in the Lemont area through George Walker, any volunteer, Silver Cross and St. Joseph or the campaign offices in Joliet 815-727-5511.

A film, "The Old/New and The New/New" runs 15 minutes. A speaker will be furnished to conduct a half-hour program to include the film.

Any person desiring the program should contact Miss Charlene Anderson at Silver Cross, or Charles Stroud at St. Joseph.

MRS. MERIL POLITO

Lemont Teacher Dies In Sleep

LEMONT--Mrs. Meril Polito, a second grade teacher at the Lemont Community Consolidated School, District 113, passed away in her sleep on July 10.

Death came at her home at 12800 S. 81st Ct., Palos Park.

Mrs. Polito, a widow, was the mother of Meril, Sandra, Prudence, Martin, Nicholas and Stephan.

A mother of one of Mrs. Polito's pupils, expressed the feeling of the entire school body during the closing days of the last school term, before the teacher's death.

She sent a letter to the school principal and said, "I would like to take this opportunity to let you know Mrs. Polito is a definite asset to your staff. She has taken time to teach, help, advise, and encourage every child, whether slow, average or above grade level. She possesses the combination of not only being an excellent teacher, but has the inner feelings for the individual student's personality, and capabilities."

"She combines all to make the class room a pleasant experience, and children learn without realizing all the effort, hard work, and long hours required. I hope Mrs. Polito will remain on your teaching staff for many years."

The Board of Education, administration, and staff of School District 113 mourn the loss of their co-worker and friend.
